Encapsulation - means putting data and methods together in one class. It also means controlling access to the data.

Data hiding - means some data is not visible to the user. The user cannot change it directly.

Data abstraction - means showing only important things and hiding details.